Creative Software Engineer Wanted

Are you newly graduated or do you have a few years software development experience? Are you seeking challenging programmer work, perhaps with a touch of international travel and direct customer contacts? Do you want to be a part of a small but growing team with highly skilled, intelligent and friendly colleagues? Then keep reading and contact us!

Mayam creates leading-edge workflow and process automation tools for the digital media production industry. The company is based in Danderyd, right outside of Stockholm. With customers in Australia, US, Europe, Asia, Africa and South America, we offer our employees a truly international working environment.

Do you recognize yourself in the following applicant profile?

- I am a very good programmer with a M. Sc. in Computer Science or equivalent
- I am an agile creative hands-on problem solver. Juggling many unknowns inspires me rather than induces stress
- I am OK with working in a Java/Linux environment regardless of my language and OS preferences
- I don't mind spending some of my time at customer sites around the world. In fact, it sounds interesting
- I am fluent in English
- I am prepared to study hard to learn products like:
    - Advanced Java platforms like GWT, Guice, etc
    - BPM workflow orchestration systems.

Does this sound like a match? If so, don't hesitate to send us a short e-mail and your C.V.!
